

Molly Madonna

Professor Marian Gonsior

WRT 3100

12 March 2012

Reflection on My Letter to the Editor

For my letter to the editor, I chose a topic that was being debated at my local museum. My younger sister and I have been volunteering there for several years (admittedly, my sister more than I) and it was she who brought the issue to my attention. Due to the rough economic status of Monroe County, there are not enough funds to keep the Historical Museum running. According to Bonnie Finzel-Doster, a volunteer there, the museum is trying to run on thirty thousand dollars a year. Last year the director had to be laid off because there was no longer any money to pay for his position, and now there are only two full-time employees working there: An archivist and an educational promoter. Because of this, the museum proposed a millage for all house-owners in Monroe County that will be voted on August 7, 2012.

The millage, if passed, would last for ten years. House-owners in Monroe would pay between five and seven dollars per year to reach the total sum of five hundred and sixty-nine thousand dollars (Cousino, D., 2012). With this money, Finzel-Doster said, the museum hopes to hire at least four more full-time employees and keep the museum open all week. Currently it is only open Wednesday to Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. (“Monroe County Historical Museums”).

Most of my information came from interviews with Bonnie and Chris Kull. Bonnie Finzel-Doster is the recorder for the S.O.S. group, which stands for Save Our Stories. This group

Molly Madonna Student name on the first line

Professor Marian Gonsior Professor name on the second line

WRT 3100 Class number or title

12 March 2012 Day month and year on which the paper is due

Important note: MLA headers are not indented!

Reflection on My Letter to the Editor

For my letter to the editor, I chose a topic that was being debated at my local museum. My younger sister and I have been volunteering there for several years (admittedly, my sister more than I) and it was she who brought the issue to my attention. Due to the rough economic status of Monroe County, there are not enough funds to keep the Historical Museum running. According to Bonnie Finzel-Doster, a volunteer there, the museum is trying to run on thirty thousand dollars a year. Last year the director had to be laid off because there was no longer any money to pay for his position, and now there are only two full-time employees working there: An archivist and an educational promoter. Because of this, the museum proposed a millage for all house-owners in Monroe County that will be voted on August 7, 2012.

The millage, if passed, would last for ten years. House-owners in Monroe would pay between five and seven dollars per year to reach the total sum of five hundred and sixty-nine thousand dollars (Cousino, D., 2012). With this money, Finzel-Doster said, the museum hopes to hire at least four more full-time employees and keep the museum open all week. Currently it is only open Wednesday to Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. (“Monroe County Historical Museums”).

Most of my information came from interviews with Bonnie and Chris Kull. Bonnie Finzel-Doster is the recorder for the S.O.S. group, which stands for Save Our Stories. This group